THE INGEBORG COLLECTION
Designed by Flemming Lassen

The Ingeborg Collection comprises two charismatic designs by Flemming Lassen – a sofa and an armchair. Named after the designer’s artist mother, Ingeborg Winding, and designed in 1940 for the annual Cabinetmakers’ Guild Exhibition, each piece is characteristically Lassen: curvaceous, comfortable and functional, with an eye for detail, material and craft.

The two-and-a-half-seater Ingeborg sofa and the petite Ingeborg Lounge Chair were recently rediscovered in the archives, never having been put into production before, and have been meticulously recreated from original sketches. Common to both are sculpted armrests that slope gently upwards, a buttoned backrest and tapered heartwood legs.

Deceptively spacious, each design is both beautiful to look at and comfortable to sit in. Together or alone, the lounge chair and sofa are snug and embracing additions to any modern living space. Both are available in a range of beautiful upholstery textiles including sheepskin, bouclé and leather and with legs in oak or dark stained oak.

About the designer

Credited for his role in bringing functionalism to Denmark, Flemming Lassen (1902–1984) was an architect and designer noted for his exacting craftsmanship and naïve expression. Lassen drew much of his inspiration from the architect Mies van der Rohe and the tenets of the Bauhaus artistic movement—a less is more approach focused on form, function and novel materials counterbalanced with human needs. His original and distinctive designs with timeless silhouettes still resonate today.
